Glover Armchair

Rodolfo Dordoni

DESCRIPTION

A fluid line engendered by a soft, continuous stroke - inspiration for the design of the Glover Armchair was spawned by the idea of creating an armchair that is as elegant as comfortable. The sides feature an unusual juncture between the enveloping seat back and the armrest, emphasized by elegant studs in pewter-color painted metal. The unexpected opening in the seat back lets the seat cushion show through, lending a visual sense of lightness to the armchair. The choice of a single upholstery material - leather or fabric - creates a harmonious monochrome effect, which the detailed workmanship draws the eye to the flawless stitching.
