Sherman

Rodolfo Dordoni

DESCRIPTION

Sherman's strong bones, refined proportions, and structural details are evident whether grouped in large-scale compositions or as individual pieces. In its cm 103 configuration, its arms are more traditional, whereas in the 142 and 170 cm-deep chaise-lounges, they are designed with a broader, lower arm rest that also functions as a coffee-table-like surface whose horizontal planes reflect those of the seating element. The design of the chaise-lounge allows the differing heights of the seat back and arms to create an interlocking visual effect, while ensuring the utmost in comfort.
