Curry

PIERO LISSONI

DESCRIPTION

Curry, the sofa by Piero Lissoni, suitable for large spaces, has a solid wood structure and intentionally exaggerated proportions. Its pleasantly distorted shape creates an asymmetrical seat that paves the way to new forms of relaxation. Curry has a sculptural silhouette with a strong graphic impact and features a precious design on the back and on the armrests made of black stained solid ash and woven straw stretched on the structure. It is an industrial piece of furniture with an artisan flavor that gives voice to the various creative languages of our time. The sofa is completed by a seat cushion with sown stitching and is made of shaped polyurethane foam with variable density for greater comfort. The back is softened by two pairs of goose-down cushions. The cover, available in fabric or leather, is fully removable, and finished with visible seams embellished by a hem in the same material and color.

Structure in black stained solid oak and black painted Vienna straw. Mattress and cushions are available in fabric or leather.

Resulting from the transformation of the Curry daybed, the Curry sofa with reduced depth is ideal in a lobby, in a waiting area or to play with several models placed next to each other to create independent islands for relaxation. Featuring a geometric matrix, with a trapezoidal shape, it draws inspiration from the East: the structure in solid black stained ash becomes the frame for the backrest in black dyed woven straw – a perfect combination of design and craftsmanship.
