DESCRIPTION

The minimal lines that outline the table and its tapered legs characterize its sophisticated elegance, creating a perfect equilibrium between dynamism and absolute lightness. A high-tech design with a unique look, underlined by the pictorial veining effect of the surface in eucalyptus.

The Penthouse table combines the minimal appeal and reassuring aesthetics, presenting classic-modern reminiscences with a contemporary feel.

It is the result of a high-tech design that pairs the structure, characterized by slightly retro, flared cast aluminum legs with a thin eucalyptus wood top sporting a matt finish, which stands out due to the natural flamed effect of the veining.

The color of the legs in glossy Pewter and the choice of a textured, pictorial wood define its sophisticated elegance, revealing an apparently simple, linear design. The tapered leg, also featured on the outdoor Terrace table designed by Rodolfo Dordoni, endows the piece with dynamism and a sensation of absolute lightness.

The definition of a table with the same design for both indoor and outdoor environments, but with materials and finishes that vary according to their use, further reinforces the concept behind the design.
